

kenneth in the (212)

"There goes the electronic neighborhood." - M. Noonan

THURSDAY, MAY 14, 2020

Song of the Day: 'Johnny, Are You Queer?' by Josie Cotton

This one's for my Phoenix brethren. (Ping me if you used to hang out at Gay Denny's!) My friend Francine recalls "the 2 a.m. show at that one! Leather dudes, drag queens, drama!" I just remember you could feel all eyes on you when you walked in or went to the bathroom, it was so intense. It made me wonder if that's how straight people felt everywhere they went -- where everyone was a potential suitor.

POSTED BY KENNETH M. WALSH AT 5:15 AM

LABELS: JOSIE COTTON, PHOENIX, SONG OF THE DAY

THERE GOES THE GAYBORHOOD

Click to revisit the heyday of Chelsea's 8th Avenue

FRIENDS WITH BENEFITS

FOLLOW MY ASS!

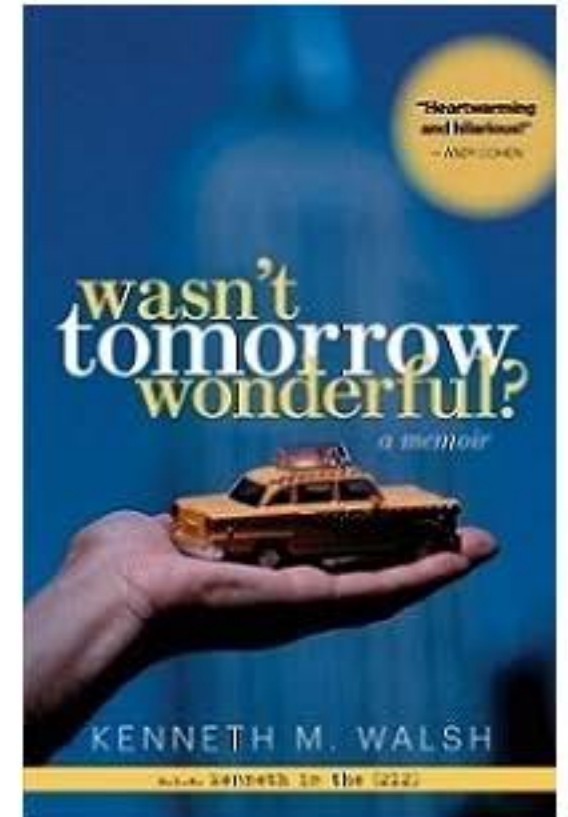

INSTAGRAMMED

POPULAR POSTS

'HEARTWARMING & HILARIOUS!' - ANDY COHEN

You've read the blog -- now read the book!

ABOUT ME

KENNETH M. WALSH
NEW YORK, NEW YORK, UNITED STATES

Writer/editor living in Manhattan (so you don't have to). My blog covers pop culture, politics, books, celebrity, music, tennis, New York City, LGBT issues, small adventures -- and is filled with typos (and writethrus) throughout.

VIEW MY COMPLETE PROFILE

SAY IT, DON'T SPRAY IT

E-mail me HERE.

FOLLOW BY EMAIL

Email address...

Submit

RETAIL QUEEN

